

Joseph Etienne

Bio Page

When doing impersonations as a kid, Joseph Etienne never dreamed that he could (or would) end up doing voiceover work for a living. In fact, he took a bit of a detour, getting a Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science and working as a systems software engineer before realizing that voiceover was his true passion, and he needed to act on it.

In 2014, Joseph enrolled in an Internet Radio Announcing course at the Columbia School of Broadcasting (now Dream2Destiny). He took courses on Tags, Promos, Anchor Roles (news, weather, and sports) as well as classes related to on-camera work.

Through these courses he discovered voiceover work, went in that direction, and never looked back.

Joseph has the innate talents that characterize a successful male voiceover professional. His voice is:

- Deep
- Resonant
- Warm
- Soothing
- Smooth
- Forceful
- Powerful
- Energetic

Augmenting this innate talent is instruction from some of the voiceover industry's best and brightest.

- Rodney Saulsberry – Joseph's current coach and one of the country's leading voice over professionals
- Joe Loesch – Past Coach at Edge Studio, a prestigious U.S. voiceover school
- Bruce Kronenberg – Past Coach from Abacus Entertainment, NYC
- Val Kelly – Past Coach from Mid Atlantic VO, LLC

In addition to creating and producing demos, Joseph has done comprehensive study of:

- Script Analysis
- Dialects
- Character Creation
- Voiceover Marketing
- And more!

Joseph is also on the talent lists of two top-notch agencies for U.S. voice actors:
